2017 Princeton Festival Guild's Annual Artists Round Table

Wednesday May 31, 2017

6:30 pm

Princeton Theological Seminary, 64 Mercer Street, Princeton NJ,
Scheide Hall Gambrell Room

The Princeton Festival Guild will present the Artists Round Table on Wednesday May 31, 2017 at 6:30 pm, Princeton Theological Seminary Scheide Hall. Artists and production staff from the Princeton Festival's production of Beethoven's "Fidelio" will share their personal experiences with the audience during an interactive forum. Hear the pleasures and perils faced both on stage and off as the artists bring the opera to life for its opening performance. The Artists Round Table offers a rare opportunity to meet the artists up close and hear in their own voice how they develop their roles, interpretations and insights.

Marian Burleigh-Motley, renowned interviewer and lecturer at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, will moderate. Richard Tang Yuk, Artistic Director of The Princeton Festival and Stephen LaCosse, Stage Director of The Princeton Festival's production of "Fidelio" will participate along with principal singers from the production.

The event is free and open to the public. Visitor parking available on the PTS campus. Artists reception follows. Visit princetonfestival.org/event/2017-artists-round-table for more information about the Artists Round Table.

The Princeton Festival presents Beethoven's "Fidelio", June 18 and 25 at McCarter Theatre. For ticket information and a complete listing of The Princeton Festival, visit www.princetonfestival.org or call 609.258.ARTS (2787).
